

FREE LONDON

Put your money away! Here are the week's best free events

CULTURE CLUB

Summer by the River

Spent all your money on your summer hol? Keep yourself occupied for the rest of the balmy months at Summer by the River, a three-month festival that's totally free. The jam-packed programme includes fitness classes, alfresco cinema, live theatre and music, and loads of workshops – from terrarium-making to a crash course in how to create your own fancy body scrubs and soaps.

→ London Bridge City. ☉ London Bridge. Thu May 30-Sep 1.

Time Out London May 28 – June 3 2019

BREADY OR NOT Free sandwiches

Put down that sad supermarket sarnie. Newly opened Shoreditch restaurant Spelzini is giving away 50 free sandwiches from 5pm this Friday. Choose from savoury creations including a croque monsieur or go sweet with one of its ice-cream sandwiches. → Spelzini, Shoreditch High St Overground. Fri May 31.

GREEN SCREEN Film screenings

Don't fancy sitting in a stuffy cinema on a sunny evening? Catch a flick in the great outdoors at All Points East's free festival In the Neighbourhood. Expect everything from classics ('Back to the Future') to more recent blockbuster hits ('Black Panther'). → In the Neighbourhood. ☉ Mile End. Until Thu May 30.

BROCK 'N' ROLL Brockley Max

This south-east arts fest celebrates local talent with nine days of events, including theatre, live music and exhibitions. Don't miss the opening street party this Friday by Brockley station – there will be local bands playing, food, booze and good vibes. → Various locations. Fri May 31-Jun 8.

ARTY PARTY Uniqlo Tate Late

Hang out after-hours at Tate Modern at this month's Uniqlo Tate Late. Taking inspiration from Jenny Holzer's ace 'Artist Rooms' exhibition, you can make your own zine, listen to talks and see some of Holzer's work projected in the Turbine Hall. Party! → Tate Modern. ☉ Southwark. Fri May 31.
